Sirius takes substantial stake in China Video Surveillance

SINGAPORE – 19 November 2009 – Boutique venture capital and entrepreneurial finance firm Sirius Venture Consulting Pte Ltd (“Sirius”) has accumulated a 5.15% stake, or 3,144,580 ordinary shares, in Singapore-listed China Video Surveillance Ltd (“China Video Surveillance”), a leading technology-based company focused on closed-circuit television (“CCTV”) security and surveillance products and accessories.

Explaining the rationale of the acquisition, Managing Director of Sirius Venture Consulting Mr Eugene Wong, said, “While the global financial crisis has not spared the security and surveillance market, we believe the Chinese government’s infrastructure development efforts and economic stimulus plan would help cushion the negative impact. We believe in China Video Surveillance’s long-term growth prospects and hope to derive long-term shareholder value from the company.”

Backed by a 15-year track record, China Video Surveillance designs, develops and markets high-quality CCTV security and surveillance products and accessories for a wide variety of commercial, industrial and government applications, both in the PRC and globally. Formerly known as Yaan Security Technology Limited, China Video Surveillance is listed on the Catalyst Board of the Singapore Exchange Securities Trading Limited.
